

Bal Harbour Shops Adds New Luxury Brands

May 30, 2014

The nation's premier shopping destination just got better! Home to the world's most luxurious brands, and THE place to find one of a kind items, the celebrated Bal Harbour Shops has unveiled a lineup of new stores: Maje (pictured), Nicholas Kirkwood, Charlotte Olympia, Rag & Bone, and John Varvatos.

This season the Shops welcomed two noteworthy British luxury shoe designers to its prestigious portfolio. Nicholas Kirkwood made his Bal Harbour debut with a pop-up store that features Miami style at its finest with bright colored heels for women and a unique section for men. As part of the brand's international strategy to carry exclusive seasonal styles, Bal Harbour was specifically chosen as one of the few places in the world to host a Kirkwood pop-up location.

In addition, designer shoe and accessories brand Charlotte Olympia marked its third U.S. opening with a brand new 1,000 square foot boutique designed especially for Bal Harbour. The store's stunning selection showcases a capsule collection of sky-high heels, embroidered T-bar Flamingo sandals and gold banana leaf clutch bags.

Other recent, prominent additions to The Bal Harbour Shops include modern, edgy fashion brand Rag & Bone's first South Florida location; chic Parisian label Maje, which carries bohemian style women's apparel from designer Judith Milgrom; and a John Varvatos 3,250 square foot store, featuring luxury menswear with a casual rocker vibe.

This summer, The Webster Bal Harbour will expand its reach with the debut of a men's fashion store alongside the recently opened women's store.
