Where to Get an Exclusive Salvatore Ferragamo Handbag

June 25, 2014 | by lauren finney | Style & Beauty

Italian powerhouse Salvatore Ferragamo unveils its newest handbag, with an exclusive style offered at its Bal Harbour Shops boutique.

Only in Miami: the medium Fiamma bag in plum, Ferragamo ($2,250).

This fall could bring a new wave of It bag frenzy when Salvatore Ferragamo introduces its covetable new handbag, the Fiamma. Named after the designer's late daughter, the Fiamma bag is made of supple leather and will come in three different sizes and multiple colors and treatments, including fringe embroidered nappa. The medium semicircular top-handle bag in plum (pictured), however, will be available exclusively at the Ferragamo boutique at Bal Harbour Shops. The vibrant color and modern shape are perfectly aligned with the attitudes of Miami women, while the soft satin lining and double-zip hardware further emphasize the house's special attention to craftsmanship.

Fiamma Ferragamo began working for the family company at age 16. As the brand's leather accessories and shoe designer for almost 40 years, she was responsible for the house's iconic Vara pump, and her spirit of femininity and creativity can be seen not only in her namesake bag but also in a film series on the brand's website. The series of online shorts will highlight inspired and inspiring women worldwide, including famous sisters Lola and Stella Schnabel and Mariel and Langley Fox Hemingway. Bal Harbour Shops, 9700 Collins Ave., 305-866-8166
